

2016 – 2017 CPD DISSERTATION AWARD

APPLICATION FORM

As part of its commitment to building the field of public diplomacy, CPD facilitates research opportunities through its CPD Research Fellowship Program, Visiting and Contributing Scholars, Research Internship programs and Dissertation Awards. The Doctoral Dissertation Award, $2,500 each, is intended to support research addressing theoretical and practical issues in public diplomacy. CPD is committed to supporting work examining a broad range of topics from diverse geographical areas and perspectives.

Please complete this form to submit with your entire application package, including your CV, dissertation abstract, and dissertation project summary, in order to be considered for the 2016-17 awards. To be eligible for the CPD Doctoral Dissertation Award, doctoral candidates must be enrolled in an accredited university anywhere in the world. The award may be used for: visiting archives, libraries, or other relevant institutions; and conducting interviews, surveys, or other fieldwork. The award may not be used for: conference participation; equipment purchases; or research that could be conducted in residence at USC.
