

China and Europe: Bear gifts for friends ^[1]

Follow the pandas: they remain a good guide to where China's biggest foreign policy interests lie. Since "panda diplomacy" began in the 1950s with an overture to the Soviet Union, gifts of cuddly-looking bears with cutesy names have helped point to the big themes in Beijing's strategic positioning.

Tags:

- china ^[2]
- soft power ^[3]
- europe ^[4]
- panda diplomacy ^[5]

Source of Headline:

Financial Times
